

Dear Friends:

NOTABLE RESEARCH OF THE WEEK

Greater Tension in Wives Leads to Divorce

Couples are most likely to divorce when wives report high levels of tension while their husbands report low levels of tension. This partially explains why women are twice as likely as men to file for divorce, report researchers at the University of Michigan.

NEW UPDATE TO MARRIPEDIA THIS WEEK

UPDATE to the “Effects of Religious Practice on Charity”

Adults who attend religious services frequently give more consistently and in greater amounts to charitable organizations. Faith-based charity organizations are integral to serving social needs and saving taxpayer money. Continue reading...
